

COVID-19:

Our Commitment to Residents

This crisis is testing all of us. We know that many families are facing financial pressures as businesses have been forced to scale back or close. We're committed to helping our residents during these trying times to ensure that no one loses the roof over their head if they're financially impacted by this pandemic.

WE'RE HERE TO HELP

- If you have suffered financially because of the outbreak, please contact your property manager. We are all in this together. We are committed to working with our residents.
- For our residents who have not experienced an income disruption from COVID-19, it's important that you do your part by continuing to pay your rent on time. We are committed to helping those directly impacted by the pandemic, but we rely on timely rent payments from those who haven't been affected.
- It's important to know that eviction moratoriums that have been put in place do not relieve residents of paying their rent or complying with their lease. Again, we are committed to helping those directly impacted by the pandemic. As a business, we have several financial obligations to meet including mortgages, insurance and taxes. We're also proud to employ hundreds of people and are working hard to keep them on the job to maintain the cleanliness and safety of our community.

RESOURCES

- We encourage you to identify resources offered by federal, state and local governments – as well as community organizations – to help you secure financial assistance, food and healthcare.
- To that end, the federal government is committed to providing significant resources to support those affected by the crisis. This includes an extension of unemployment benefits, direct payments to Americans and assistance to select industries to get people back to work. We hope that these support mechanisms will help make your household finances work.

For now, we are heartened by the stories of neighbors helping one another – from grocery shopping to checking in on each other. Communities working together to stay safe is what will get us through this crisis, and we are here for you. The steps we're taking will safeguard this community and we appreciate your willingness to help.
